Comparative analysis of the frequency of the 5-methylcytidine (5mC) content in the DNA of lymphocytes and peripheral lymphocytes of the blood has been carried out in 5 patients of the developed early form of Behcet's disease (BD) and 21 healthy donors. 5mC was determined by the chromic acid procedure. It has been shown that peripheral lymphocytes of the blood and DNA of lymphocytes of the same individuals of normal control are characterized by high content of the 5mC which is decreased to the usual level in the studied BD subjects, not only in the EBD, but also in the first recurrences of the disease. In vitro studies demonstrated that 5mC is practically completely demethylated in the lymphocytes and lymphocyte DNA of patients with BD after the action of a high concentration of 5-azacytidine and of 5-azacytidine-containing medium.Bertrand Gille Bertrand Gille (born 7 December 1931) is a French historian specializing in medieval history. Modular multipower optical amplifier (MMOPA) based on a chalcogenide glass waveguide. In this article, we demonstrate a novel modular multipower optical amplifier (MMOPA) structure based on a chalcogenide glass waveguide to achieve uniform gain across the entire MMOPA waveguide for pump-probe applications. In comparison with the MMOPA structure without the flat metal reflectors, the MMOPA-flat metal reflectors has exhibited a more uniform gain across the entire MMOPA waveguide. The experimental result obtained from the MMOPA-flat metal reflectors is in good agreement with the Monte Carlo simulation.Q: Android - Create a background from a png I want to create a background dynamically that will change depending on what the user is doing.
