The transient K(+) channels, TASK1-3, are the founding members of a subfamily of the superfamily of two pore domains K(+) channels (K2P). TASK channels play an important role in the control of the excitability of many cell types. TASK1 channels are important for the cardiovascular system and have also been found in the sensory cells of the inner ear. TASK3 channels are expressed in the brain and are involved in pain sensation. Mutations in TASK1 and TASK3 cause human disorders. Here we report the synthesis of a novel set of derivatives of the specific activator 2-amino-2-methyl-5-tert-butyl-3,4-dihydroisoquinoline-4-carboxylic acid, which are able to differentiate between TASK1 and TASK3 channels. The TASK1-selective ligands also show a high potency in functional in vitro assays and in the in vivo calcium-imaging assay. If You're Hanging With JRSD, You Probably Dated Someone Who Dated JR Earlier today, NYLON's Glamour published an article that highlighted the fact that you're probably hanging out with JRSD's creator, Joe Rice, because you've actually dated someone who dated him and loved him for a few months, if not a few years. You, my friend, are as cliché as his biz is; you bought JRSD clothes, you went out with him, and you felt good afterwards about
